"You know, of course, that France Delamere is staying at the Oaks?"

"Yes, I know."

Harrison Hill, stretched out on the yellow beach under the shade of a large umbrella, turned on his elbow and looked curiously at his friend.

"You know, too, that you're most friendly in love with her?" he said quickly.

Dr. Bergen's patrician face flushed hotly under its deep bronze tan. "That's a nice speech to fire at a man," he commented.

"Oh, you never mind what I say. That's one of the privileges of friends!"

"And fools," cut in Bergen coolly.

"You have me there," acknowledged Hill. "I believe those who were the motley were permitted to express their opinions with some frankness. Well, you may class me with those if you wish. But I'm going to tell you straight that you're kidding me."

"About that girl, you admired her tremendously last winter in the city. Well, we all did, for that matter. But you had the best show of the bunch. She wouldn't look at a little three-fourths cent like me, for instance. And you held out—you're holding out now. I wish I knew why! You're in love with her!" he repeated stubbornly. "I haven't known you all my life for nothing."

Max Bergen laughed uneasily and erased a direct reply.

"Miss Delamere is a very beautiful young woman," he said. "She has wealth, social position, many friends—"

"You have all those," his friend insisted eagerly.

"I met her frequently last winter," went on the young surgeon. "She was always bedimmed, exquisitely costumed, perfectly coiffured. Her shoulders were like white marble, and her hands were the loveliest a man could look at. But—was there a woman's heart under that fair bosom? Did her unforgettable eyes?

"France Delamere!" he cried. "Women are so awkward!" she protested and laughed.

He jerked off his coat and went to work, but his fingers trembled and there was a queer blur before his eyes. Hill came up with the bag and heard all that Greta Fallows had to say. On his way back he told his companion what she had said.

"She's a proud little woman. She would not take all that Miss Delamere would have given her, for she's poor, as you can see. But because there have been friends and neighbors when both were children she has allowed Miss Delamere to come and help her, chiefly in taking her children off to a secluded part of the beach and minding them, while she got through her laundry work. Is the injury bad, Max?" he ended anxiously.

"Nothing to what it might have been, thank God! They will bring her back to the Oaks this evening. I'll handle the story. It was worn out. She saved the baby—but it's—"

"According to Mrs. Fallows, France's kindness to her is only part of what she's doing for many poor women. So your opinion?"

"May God forgive me—and may she!" prayed Max Bergen. "It was not professional, but next morning when he bled the poor arm he bent and kissed the story. It was worn out. She saved the baby—but it's—"

"Will you be very angry if I tell you that I love you?" he questioned.

She smiled up at him from her couch.

"I'm afraid I would be very disappointed if you were never to tell me that," she said.

At the whispered words his face grew radiant.

"But you don't know what has kept me so long from telling you! You don't know what an idiot I was! You've no idea what I—I thought!"

A smile flickered across her mouth and lingered in her eyes. She laid her pink finger tips against his lips.

"I know what you have just said," she answered, "and that is—enough!"

Barred According to Religion.

An ancient custom still prevailing in many old burial grounds was described by a Richmond gentleman who has been interested in tracing family records.

"When my wife and I were in Y.," he said, "we had occasion to visit the graveyards of the quiet little town, many of my wife's people being buried in the neighborhood. It struck me as queer, finding similar names in all three graveyards. Scattered here and there they were, but always alike."

"I puzzled over it for a long time and finally asked the sexton. He was an old, old man and remembered away back to the beginning of things. 'I can tell you,' he said, 'waging his gray head solemnly. 'It was customary in old times to divide families according to their religious beliefs. If husband and wife were Methodist and Baptist in life, after death the husband's grave was placed near some Methodist brother, while the wife's body went hunting for her Baptist sisters. In that way the families were scattered hither and yon, and the same name occurred perhaps five or six times in one graveyard.'—Lewiston Journal.

His Tenderness.

The London Chronicle tells this story: She was a dreadful woman when they brought her in to St. Bartholomew's hospital. The youthful surgeon worked away upon her face with sponges and plaster and cotton wool, wondering aloud how she could have got into such a state. Clearly the woman had some thing to say, but she could not say it. When the surgeon had made a job of it he gently lifted the woman over his arm and asked, "How did it happen?"

"She raised a fit to shake her over his shoulder and cried furiously: 'I don't do it! I don't do it!' Turning his head, the surgeon could see the man, who had been standing just under the faring gas jet and watching the proceeding with the interest of a landlady proprietor at a building operation. 'Be shuffed the woman to her feet. She turned on him. 'Drum!' she shrieked through her fingers. 'You call me a brute? And after he brought me all the way 'ere in 'is arms, bless 'im!'"

Changed His Tune.

It was one Sunday morning in a Scotch kirk when the door was left open during service that a lamb that had lost its mother strayed into the church and began to disturb the congregation by its mournful cries and bleats. The minister leaned over his desk, woke the clerk, who sat below, and whispered to him in audible tones, "Sandy, remove that lamb." Sandy accordingly proceeded to catch the lamb, and when, after an exciting chase around the kirk, he had got it safely by the scruff of the neck he led it down the aisle, calling to it in the gentlest tones all the way. "Coom along, my wee lammy; coom along." The door was reached at last and quickly shut, but those of the congregation who were near that end of the kirk heard a scuffle and an angry voice saying, "Get out of the house of the Lord, ye brute!"

An Odd Wedding Custom.

A unique wedding custom prevails in Manchuria. The bride and her attendants, all mounted on stilts, proceed through the main streets of the village to the domicile of the groom, who meets the procession and conducts it to the place where the ceremony is to be performed. He and his friends are also on stilts. Social prominence is indicated not by richness of attire, but by the height of the stilts worn by the assembled guests. The higher the rank of the wedded pair the loftier the stilts they wear. If, as sometimes happens, the contracting parties are of differing social standing the effect is more than usually ludicrous.

The Builder's Nose.

Froude told Dr. Boyd an interesting little anecdote of an Oxford undergraduate who was asked in an examination in Paley's "Evidences" if he could mention a solitary instance of the divine goodness which he had discovered for himself. "Yes," he replied, "the conformation of the nose of the bulldog. Its nose is so retracted that it can hang on to the bull and yet breathe freely. But for this it would soon have to let go."

Published Every Thursday.

COLLEGEVILLE, MONTG. CO., PA.

E. S. MOSER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1905.

OVER one hundred lives were lost in a tornado that wrecked the town of Snyder, Oklahoma, Wednesday night of last week.

FOUR men were burned to death and fifty injured, Friday morning, by an explosion at the Point Breeze Works of the United Gas Improvement Company.

EX-PRESIDENT GROVER CLEVELAND is a level-headed statesman, but he is entitled—in justice to himself—to just another think anent the woman question.

FROM the Kansas City Times: "Senator Dolliver, who missed the Vice Presidential nomination and then got hit by a stone in a Chicago strike riot the other day, seems marked by destiny as an innocent bystander."

IN the matter of vetoing appropriations for monuments the Governor might with much propriety have turned down the whole batch. But this is only a Perkiomen Valley opinion, however.

GOVERNOR PENNYPACKER has done just what the Legislature, in half doing its work, expected him to do—scale down the appropriations within sight of the amount of available funds in the State Treasury.

THE Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the State of Pennsylvania cannot collect a tax upon coal after it has been shipped. This decision reverses the opinion of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and means, it is stated, a loss of $250,000 annually to the State.

THE Conshohocken Recorder is entirely in error in nominating Judge James B. Holland for Governor. The Republican party will have to go upon a very close search to find, if at all, more admirable gubernatorial timber than that possessed by Judge Holland.

RETURNS to the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture made up to May 1 show the area under winter wheat in cultivation on that date to have been about 29,723,000 acres. The prospects for at least an average crop of wheat are good.

NOTWITHSTANDING the most careful management and rigid rules of Railroad Companies, frightful accidents will happen; human lives will be sacrificed. The circumstances having to do with the collision near Harrisburg, last week, were as unusual in character as they were appalling in effect.

THE Central News of Perkasie, Bucks county, has passed its twenty-fifth milestone, and Editor Meredith deserves all the kind observations showered upon him by his many admiring contemporaries. May all his future efforts in journalism be crowned with much success, and may his ink tank lose none of its scintillating power for years to come.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT persists in heading in the right direction with relation to the elimination of the rebates of Railroad Companies, as well as to the Trust question. The latter problem, however, will remain unsolved until the American people determine to quit coddling and pampering the few to the disadvantage of the masses. A protective tariff has always been and will always be a breeder of Trusts.

THE Democratic County Convention held in Norristown, Tuesday, elected the following delegates to the State Convention to be held in Harrisburg next week: Harvey Christman, Limerick; John J. Connelly, Lower Merion; John J. McCormick, Bridgeport; Dr. Charles Q. Hillegass, Pennsylvania; Geo. W. Lutz, Ambler; Thomas Kindregan, Conshohocken; Lyman B. Reifsnider, Pottstown; William Satterthwaite, Horsham; Thomas V. Smith, Norristown; Oliver Wolf, Telford.

It is a forgone conclusion that the members of the Board of County Commissioners will be nominated for another term—Messrs. Penrose and Anders by the Republicans; Mr. Sheldene by the Democrats. This conclusion is entirely in keeping with the excellent service performed by Commissioners Penrose, Anders, and Sheldene, during their present term. They have proven themselves to be painstaking and conscientious public officials, and the voters of Montgomery county will doubtless accept with pleasure the opportunity to re-elect, and thus substantially endorse, these faithful public servants.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 11, 1905.—President Roosevelt in effect cast a bomb into the great railway camp in Washington by his declarations in a speech, made in Denver, on the subject of railway legislation. In effect, the President said, the railroads of the country have superceded the old highway and the turnpikes and are to-day the only highways of commerce. They are public highways and must be administered for the best interests of the whole people and not, primarily, to yield the greatest profits to the stockholders. They are controlled by great corporations which are all powerful and which have the private citizen at their mercy. Now the federal government must—"a supervisory and regulatory function over the great corporations which practically control the great highways of commerce."

Having announced this as the philosophy which controlled his further reasoning on this subject, the President reiterated his declaration that power must be conferred on the Interstate Commerce Commission to by certain prominent Senators. How little foundation in fact there was for the latter assertion is demonstrated by the President's Denver speech.

Color was given to these reports, however, by Secretary Morton's remarks at the opening of the Railway Exhibit in this city. Mr. Morton spoke emphatically in favor of railway legislation but then went on to outline his conception of the legislation which ought to be passed by saying that it should prevent all discrimination between individuals, all rebates, private car, terminal, elevator and other discriminations. With daily rumors from the Capitol to the effect that the President had receded from his position of last fall and an apparent confirmation of the assertion by a member of the cabinet, it is not surprising that many railway men were themselves misled, but that they were quietly indulging in exclusives against what they declare to be the President's "revolutionary ideas."

That the President will have a task on his hands in attempting to secure any adequate railway legislation by Congress is assured. He will be opposed by one of the most powerful lobbies ever seen in Washington, and no effort will be spared to prevent so tremendous a step in advance as that which he proposes. And the President is not unaware of this fact. "We have come to the parting of the ways," is one of his favorite expressions in speaking on this subject and he has even intimated to his friends that rather than be defeated in a policy which he regards as of the utmost importance to the welfare of the Republic he might even resort to a transcontinental trip on which he would emphasize, in lecture halls and from rear platforms, his views on this subject and the necessity of the people's affording him the warmest kind of support in his campaign against infractions of the people's rights.

The President has one element of strength in his favor. His term will last until March 4, 1909. Every member of the present House and more than one third of the Senate must stand for reelection in the meantime. There can be no doubt as to the sincerity with which the President espouses this important cause and it is unlikely that the people will question the righteousness of his views. The railway men insist, however, that he will have "the fight of his life" before him if he attempts to secure legislation in accordance with what they call his "revolutionary views," and so far as the fight is concerned they are probably correct.

Secretary Wilson, who has just won a victory over the railroads which sought to evade the law requiring the unloading of stock for watering and feeding at least once in each 24 hours, is inclined to make light of the personal victory implied by the fact that the Attorney General has sustained his opinion and reversed the attorneys of the railroads, but he admits that the Attorney General's opinion is a victory for humanity, not only to dumb brutes but to man as well. Elucidating this proposition the Secretary to-day told your correspondent that not only was it essential from a humane standpoint that cattle should be unloaded as frequently as the law required, but unless the law was observed there would inevitably be produced a fevered condition of stock intended for human consumption with the result that when the meat was placed on the market it would be in a condition unfit for human consumption. "That," said the Secretary, "affords an additional incentive for enforcing the law."

NEW LAW FOR ROAD SUPERVISORS.

Governor Pennypacker has signed the bill providing for the election and appointment of road supervisors in the several townships of the second class, which include the townships of each county. By the act of May 11, 1901, townships are divided into two classes. To the first belong all which have a population of 300 or more to the square mile, to the second class all others. Lower Merion, Cheltenham and Springfield townships do not come under this law.

The new law approved by the Governor defines the duties of road supervisors; authorizes them to make repairs and maintain roads and bridges and let contracts for the same; levy and collect taxes; employ labor; divide townships into districts; appoint road masters and a treasurer; and to purchase road making implements and machines.

According to the act, on the third Tuesday of February, 1906, one person is to be elected to serve one year; one to serve two years and one to serve three years to be styled road supervisors; but there shall be no election where the terms of the present supervisors have not expired. These road supervisors are to meet on the first Monday of March and organize by electing officers, also a treasurer who may not be a member of the board. They shall at once levy a road tax, which shall not exceed ten mills on the dollar, the valuation to be the last adjusted valuation for county purposes and to be furnished to the supervisors by county commissioners. A greater rate than ten mills may be levied by order of the Court of Quarter Sessions on petition of the supervisors whose recommendation, however must be unanimous. Upon every taxable in the township an additional sum of $1 shall be assessed in addition to the mileage tax mentioned above.

The act further authorizes the payment of a percentage of road tax to those townships which abolish the "work tax." The townships doing this shall receive from the State 15 per cent. of the amount of the road tax collected in the township.

The townships shall be divided into road districts of not less than five miles of road to each district and the supervisors shall employ a road master for each district whose duty it shall be to see that the work is done in accordance with the plans and specifications furnished him by the commissioners. The supervisors shall fix the wages of this road master and also of any laborers employed to help him. The supervisors may make a contract with any citizen of the township to keep in repair not more than three miles of road, no contract to extend over a period greater than three years.

In the purchase of road making machinery and implements the supervisors of one or more adjoining townships may join.

The treasurer of the board is to furnish bond with two sufficient sureties to be approved by the auditors of the township. He is to pay out money only on written order of the supervisors.

The supervisors are to meet once a month. They are to be allowed for necessary expenses, office rent, stationery, light and heat to be paid out of the township road funds. A full and itemized statement of the preceding year is to be furnished the township auditors.

Under the provisions of this new law the salaries of the supervisors will be the same as at present, $2 per day for every day they work. The tax will be collected in the same way as now.

Aunt Chloe and the Dinner.
Mrs. McJarvis had invited a number of friends to dinner, but the cook left her on the morning of the appointed day without a moment's notice, says the Chicago Tribune.

In this emergency she hunted up an old friend of the family, Aunt Chloe, wife of Uncle Ephraim, and asked her to take the cook's place.

"I'll cook de dinner, missis," said Aunt Chloe, "if you'll give me wot's left."

Mrs. McJarvis agreed, and within a few hours the dinner was well under way.

Later in the day she visited the kitchen.

"Why, Aunt Chloe," she said, "I have only five persons to entertain, and you are cooking everything there is in the house! What is that?"

"I want to make sho', missis," said Aunt Chloe, "dat dere'll be sum'n left."

London's First Omnibus.
The first London omnibus was really more gorgeous than its successor of today. It was an imposing vehicle, beautifully decorated and painted, with accommodation for twenty-two passengers inside, and was drawn by three handsome bays, driven by a smart coachman in livery, and its conductor was a man in a velvet uniform, like a midshipman. This conductor, by the way, was the son of a naval captain and spoke French so well that it was quite common for the poke bonneted young ladies from Paddington to ride as far as the city and back with the object of improving their French by chatting with him. The fare from the Yorkshire Stingo, at Paddington, to the Bank was a shilling; halfway, sixpence, and newspapers and books were provided for the passengers.—London Globe.

Care of Harness.
Take the harness to a room where you can unblock it and separate the parts completely. Wash each part well in lukewarm water to which has been added a little potash. Scrub well with a brush until all the grease and dirt have been removed. Work the pieces well under the hand until they become supple. It won't do to oil until it becomes so. Let the parts dry in a place where they will do so slowly. When just moist, oil. For this purpose use cod liver oil. It is the best for the purpose. Besides, if you were to use neat-foot the rats and mice are your enemies at once, while they will not touch a harness oiled with cod liver oil. Give a good dose of oil to all parts, then hang up to dry. When dry, rub well with a soft rag.

A Russian Sentry.
In 1859 the Russian emperor saw a soldier in the middle of a grass plot in the palace grounds. Why was there a daily guard, relieved at stated intervals? No one knew. Curiosity was aroused, and at last a veteran was discovered who remembered hearing his father say that the Empress Catherine—she died in 1727—once saw a snow-drop in bloom at the point quarterly early and asked that a guard be stationed there to protect it. And there a sentinel remained for at least 123 years; no one knew how much longer.

For Sore Throat.
Those subject to sore throat will find the following preparation simple, cheap and highly efficacious when used in the early stage. Pour a pint of boiling water into a quart jar. Add a teaspoonful of salt and a half teaspoonful of vinegar stand for an hour; add vinegar sufficient to make it pleasantly acid and honey to taste. The mixture should be used as a gargle twice a day. There is no danger if some of it is swallowed.

Disappointment on Both Sides.
"You said the house was only five minutes' walk from the station," complained the victim. "To say the least, I'm disappointed in you."

"And I'm disappointed in you," replied the agent. "I thought you were a very rapid walker."—Philadelphia Press.

Setting Him Right.
"You think a good deal of your husband, don't you?" asked the visiting relative.

"You have the wrong preposition," answered Mr. Meekton's wife, with the cold tones of the superior woman. "I think for him."

A Man is the Age of His Arteries.
While some persons are in full organic decadence at thirty-five years, some others may not yet at fifty years have undergone the modifications of nutrition which are the beginning of old age. The capacity of a man for violent exertion is determined by the more or less complete integrity of the arterial tissues. In some cases arterial sclerosis is nothing but the gradual and slow consequences of the advance of age, but assumes a rapid pace that makes it of serious moment. In such cases we can see young persons presenting the same physiological reactions against fatigue as the elderly man. One of the first symptoms of that acute aging of the arteries which is called arterial sclerosis is the dyspnoea of effort. All elderly men are in different degrees tainted with arterial degeneracy, and all ought to avoid excessive muscular effort if they would not wear out their arteries before the time—that is, would not grow old prematurely—for every man is "of the age of his arteries."

Friday and Thirteen.
In Great Britain there are two particular superstitions which have probably the largest following—that Friday is an unlucky day and that thirteen is an unlucky number. Friday's bad character was derived from the fact that it was the day of our Lord's crucifixion, as well as the one on which Adam and Eve ate the forbidden fruit, and likewise the day of their death. Sailors have still a strong objection to beginning a voyage on that day, although modern conditions often make it imperative. In Christian countries, too, the superstition of thirteen at dinner being unlucky and that one of the diners will be before the year is out is also of Biblical origin, being revived from the last supper of our Lord with his twelve apostles, but the superstition is much anterior to Christianity. Thirteen at dinner in Norse mythology was deemed unlucky because at a banquet in the Valhalla Loki once intruded, making the thirteenth guest, and Baldur was slain.—London Globe.

A man's good nature can be accurately gauged from the distance his child will run to meet him when he comes home.

SAVED FROM THE KNIFE

Cal-cura Solvent, the Wonderful New Medicine Will Dissolve and Expel Stone and Gravel from the System. Your Money Back if it Does Not Cure.

A surgical operation is no longer necessary for the removal of Stone and Gravel from the Kidneys and Bladder, since the new medicine, Cal-cura Solvent, discovered by the well-known physician and surgeon, the late Dr. David Kennedy, quickly dissolves and easily expels Stones, Bile and White Gravel, thus freeing the patient of the inflammation and pain, caused by the presence of these line formations. Better than all, Cal-cura Solvent prevents the formation of Stone and Gravel and all uric acid conditions of the blood. The medical profession has accepted and heartily endorsed the principle upon which Dr. Kennedy based his claims for Cal-cura Solvent. If your druggist does not have Cal-cura Solvent, write to the Cal-cura Company, Rondout, N.Y.; but ask your druggist first. $1.00 a bottle. Only one size.

Caution: Your druggist will return your money if Cal-cura fails to cure, and the Cal-cura Company will pay the druggist's Remedy, Cal-cura Solvent cures 98% of all cases of Kidney, Bladder and Liver disorders.

Faringer, of Pottstown, as a solicitor or agent for the company of phones for the company. Mr. Faringer, who began his duties on Monday, has our best wishes for success.

Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity church met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hendricks, Monday evening. After business matters were disposed of the following program was rendered: Piano solo, Dorothy Gristick; recitation, Chas. Babin; piano, Margaret Moore; and Loretta Scheurer; recitation, James Harner; piano solo, Mae Clamer. The rest of the evening was devoted to a good social time.

At School Every Day During Eight Terms.

Miss Eva Gottschalk, of the Ironbridge school, holds a record for public school attendance of which she may well be proud. She has attended school every day for eight school years and during that time has never been late at the school for a session. Her younger sister has been present every school day for four years. Can any two sisters show a better school attendance than this?

A Big Jury.

The dispossession case of Isaac Warner against John F. Wein to gain possession of a forty-acre farm in Limerick township, which rents for $100 a year, was heard at Norristown before Justices of the Peace Egbert and Lenhardt and a jury of twelve men selected by the court. This was the third trial of the case in a similar manner. The first verdict was set aside because the jurors were not freeholders. At the second trial the two justices insisted on participating with the jurors in helping to reach a verdict, but the jury disagreed. When the case had been heard Joseph S. Kratz, attorney for Wein, asked whether the justices intended to retire with the jury. "Yes, replied the justices. "Well, then, I have as much legal right to deliberate with them," said Kratz. "This is the first court in the United States which has ever retired with the jury," said Kratz. "The verdict was in favor of the defense and placed the costs, amounting to over $100, on Mauger. This sum is more than he will receive for rent from Wein during the continuance of the lease.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes a family city is saved by dynamite. A case of this kind occurred in the case of a family city. Sometimes a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. F. Gray, of Columbia, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravating cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her, so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her. Strictly scientific care for Bronchitis and La Grippe." At Joseph W. Culbert's drug store, price 50c. and 1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Terrific Race with Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Florida, describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease. I was in a desperate condition. I had tried many different doctors and special medicines, but got no benefit and began to use Electric Bile. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and to-day I am cured of all my troubles. Culbert's Electric Bile. For sale by Jos. W. Culbert, Collegeville, M. T. Hunsicker, Rahn Station, and at Edward Brownback's Store, Trappe.

Artesian Well at the Cannery.

Charles Rahn, of Monocacy, who is drilling an artesian well six inches in diameter at the Cannery in this borough, reached a depth of about 150 feet Monday evening. The depth required to ensure the supply of water needed is not as yet determined, but it is not likely to exceed 200 feet.

Teachers' Examinations.

County Superintendent Landis has fixed upon the dates and places for holding teachers' examinations in this county. On Tuesday, May 30 he will examine the teachers for Norristown, Plymouth, Lower Providence, Whitpain, Worcester, Trappe and Collegeville, at the Jeffersonville school house; of Royersford and Upper Providence at Royersford on Friday, June 16.

Remarkably Fast Time.

The important incident at Atlantic City, Sunday, was the coming of a special train over the Reading from Camden, which whirled across the State in the remarkable time of forty-three minutes. The distance is fifty-four miles. The special was operated to show the speed with which the trip could be made to a number of the foreign railway men who had been attending the conference in Washington.

'Phone Companies Merged.

The transfer of the ownership of the Montgomery Telephone Company, principally of Worcester, to the Delaware and Atlantic Company has taken place. D. M. Anders and Amos H. Schultz, members of the local board, remain under the new ownership. The Montgomery's lease with the United Company does not expire until October next, and the line will remain connected until that time.

Mormon Missionaries.

Within the past week two Mormon missionaries from Utah have canvassed this borough and distributed literature relating to the Mormon religion. So far as we are informed, no converts have been made. The people of the quarter are pretty thoroughly fixed in their ways of believing and thinking, and it is hardly probable that any of them will take very kindly either to the teachings of the book of Mormon or to the persuasive eloquence of the missionaries.

Terrible Accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

One of the most appalling and frightful wrecks that ever occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad, happened near Harrisburg about 2 o'clock Thursday morning, when 20 persons were killed, many of them buried to death, at the time of a work accomplished during the year. The membership throughout the nation has increased twenty per cent., and over two hundred new clubs have been organized, one in our county. Twenty States and one Territory have had woman suffrage measures before their Legislatures this session.

Convention at Ambler.

The Montgomery County W. C. T. U. held its nineteenth semi-annual convention with an all-day session in the Mount Pleasant Baptist church, Ambler, last Thursday. The evening meeting was addressed by Mrs. J. A. W. D. on "The Woman's War." The attendance of delegates was a fair representation of the county membership. Mrs. S. L. Oberholzer, county president, presided at both day and evening meetings. Mrs. M. P. Lovell gave a comprehensive address on "The New Humane Educational Scope." She advised the adoption in the schools of the new Jones series of Readers in eight grades, which contained matter treating on subjects along humane lines, as helping on this new law of work. Other speakers adding to the day's interest were Mrs. Adams and Margaret Whitechurch. Miss Sarah Haley, Mrs. Charles Rile, who welcomed the delegates, Mrs. Agnes Hyde, on Mothers' Work, Mrs. S. L. Oberholzer, Miss Huston, recited the National Convention of the Pottstown and Reading Company's tracks at Rahn's Hill, below Pottstown, passengers will be transferred from one car to another in waiting on the opposite side of the tracks. The use of this transfer has caused the Schuylkill Valley Company to abandon its tracks running into Sanatoga. The cars running into Sanatoga were operated on a forty-minute schedule, which was well maintained, and the crossing below Pottstown is made, which will doubtless be only a question of a little time, the people of Pottstown will have no excuse not to appreciate the better service.

The Schuylkill Valley Lands Passengers in Pottstown.

On Sunday the Schuylkill Valley Traction Company began running cars over its extension from a point on the turnpike about one mile below Sanatoga into Pottstown, the passengers being landed at the corner of Adams and King streets. From this point a strong force was put on to complete the road out to Adam to King and thence up King to York street. Pending the settlement of the injunction restraining the new line from crossing the Pottstown and Reading Company's tracks at Rahn's Hill, below Pottstown, passengers will be transferred from one car to another in waiting on the opposite side of the tracks. The use of this transfer has caused the Schuylkill Valley Company to abandon its tracks running into Sanatoga. The cars running into Sanatoga were operated on a forty-minute schedule, which was well maintained, and the crossing below Pottstown is made, which will doubtless be only a question of a little time, the people of Pottstown will have no excuse not to appreciate the better service.

Rescued From Wells.

Harry Weasner, of Pottstown, fell into a fifty-foot well containing 12 feet of water Thursday, and narrowly escaped drowning. He was engaged in removing a pump stock from the well, standing on that purpose on an extension ladder. The ladder broke and Weasner was thrown to the bottom of the well. His cries were heard by two men who were passing, who threw him a rope by which he was drawn to the top about 10 p. m.

Mrs. Selva Muncher, residing on the River road, in Lower Merion, was rescued from drowning in a well on her farm Wednesday of last week, by John Gunson, a Postal Telegraph lineman. Gunson, while working on the line, saw the woman struggling for the well to get a drink. When some distance away he heard cries for help and the barking of a dog. He ran to where the distress signals were given and found Mrs. Muncher struggling in the bottom of a twenty-foot well. With the aid of his associates and the ropes employed in building the telegraph line, Mrs. Muncher, a woman weighing 220 pounds, was brought to the surface. The well floor had given way while she was pumping water.

The Turf.

Speed contests at Kinwood, near Jeffersonville, this Thursday afternoon.

There will be a number of races at the Phoenixville driving park on the afternoon of Memorial Day, May 30.

On Thursday, May 25, there will be a series of turf engagements at Billerbeck's driving park, Penn Square. The purses range from $20 to $50.

Successful Song Recital.

A large audience enjoyed a musical treat in Bomberger Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening, when a song recital was given by the department of music of Ursinus College. Miss Marion Spangler, the head of the department, was the pianist of the occasion, and was ably assisted by Mr. Henry Hotz, in his solo voice, played the piano, and Mr. Clarence Shunk, in his solo voice, played the piano. Mrs. Hotz, the soprano soloist, announced to be present, was unable to appear, and Victor S. Schertzinger of Philadelphia, a violinist of much ability, was substituted. Mr. Hotz, in his solo voice, played the piano, and Mr. Clarence Shunk, in his solo voice, played the piano. Mrs. Hotz, the soprano soloist, announced to be present, was unable to appear, and Victor S. Schertzinger of Philadelphia, a violinist of much ability, was substituted. Mrs. Hotz, the soprano soloist, announced to be present, was unable to appear, and Victor S. Schertzinger of Philadelphia, a violinist of much ability, was substituted.

Woman Suffrage.

The annual suffrage meeting of the Montgomery County Woman's Suffrage Association was held on Saturday in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Norristown, with representatives from Plymouth Meeting, Collegeville and Norristown. Owing to the formation of a new club at Ambler, the Executive Committee recommended that a local club be formed in Norristown, and both be auxiliary to the county society. The recommendation was adopted. One name was added to the roll of members. The election of officers resulted in the choice of Miss Ellen L. Thomas for President; Mrs. Margaret Moser, Vice President; Miss Mary H. D. for Secretary; Mrs. H. R. Livezey, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Ellen C. Jones, Treasurer, and five members of the Executive Committee, Mrs. Helen C. Wenden, Mrs. Sarah H. Longstrech, Mrs. S. L. Landes, Mrs. Elizabeth Y. Cooper and Miss Anna B. Thomas. A resolution on the death of Mrs. Emily H. Corson was read and directed by Mrs. Corson to the day papers, and a copy to be sent to her daughter, Mrs. Ellen C. Jones read an article on Miss Anthony and Mr. Cleveland, and the meeting concluded with the President's address, in which she declared that the work accomplished during the year. The membership throughout the nation has increased twenty per cent., and over two hundred new clubs have been organized, one in our county. Twenty States and one Territory have had woman suffrage measures before their Legislatures this session.

Jottings From Limerick Square and Vicinity.

The Limerick Jr. base ball team will play the Schuylkill Juniors on Saturday, May 20, on the home grounds. Our Juniors will give their best to put up a first-class game. The game will be called at 1:30 sharp, since the L. A. C. may have a game at 8 o'clock.

The L. A. C. expect to get suits in the near future and will make their first appearance in them on May 27, when they will play the Douglassville team at Douglassville.

The ninth annual commencement of the public schools of Limerick will be held in the Limerick Centre church on Saturday evening, May 20, at 7:45 sharp.

Convocation at Ambler.

The Montgomery County W. C. T. U. held its nineteenth semi-annual convention with an all-day session in the Mount Pleasant Baptist church, Ambler, last Thursday. The evening meeting was addressed by Mrs. J. A. W. D. on "The Woman's War." The attendance of delegates was a fair representation of the county membership. Mrs. S. L. Oberholzer, county president, presided at both day and evening meetings. Mrs. M. P. Lovell gave a comprehensive address on "The New Humane Educational Scope." She advised the adoption in the schools of the new Jones series of Readers in eight grades, which contained matter treating on subjects along humane lines, as helping on this new law of work. Other speakers adding to the day's interest were Mrs. Adams and Margaret Whitechurch. Miss Sarah Haley, Mrs. Charles Rile, who welcomed the delegates, Mrs. Agnes Hyde, on Mothers' Work, Mrs. S. L. Oberholzer, Miss Huston, recited the National Convention of the Pottstown and Reading Company's tracks at Rahn's Hill, below Pottstown, passengers will be transferred from one car to another in waiting on the opposite side of the tracks. The use of this transfer has caused the Schuylkill Valley Company to abandon its tracks running into Sanatoga. The cars running into Sanatoga were operated on a forty-minute schedule, which was well maintained, and the crossing below Pottstown is made, which will doubtless be only a question of a little time, the people of Pottstown will have no excuse not to appreciate the better service.

The Schuylkill Valley Lands Passengers in Pottstown.

On Sunday the Schuylkill Valley Traction Company began running cars over its extension from a point on the turnpike about one mile below Sanatoga into Pottstown, the passengers being landed at the corner of Adams and King streets. From this point a strong force was put on to complete the road out to Adam to King and thence up King to York street. Pending the settlement of the injunction restraining the new line from crossing the Pottstown and Reading Company's tracks at Rahn's Hill, below Pottstown, passengers will be transferred from one car to another in waiting on the opposite side of the tracks. The use of this transfer has caused the Schuylkill Valley Company to abandon its tracks running into Sanatoga. The cars running into Sanatoga were operated on a forty-minute schedule, which was well maintained, and the crossing below Pottstown is made, which will doubtless be only a question of a little time, the people of Pottstown will have no excuse not to appreciate the better service.

Rev. W. O. Fegley, of this borough, and G. W. Vandervelde, of Collegeville, as delegate, represented the Lutheran church at a meeting of the Norristown Conference of Lutheran churches at Perkasie, Monday and Tuesday.

A regular meeting of Town Council was held Monday evening. Routine business was transacted and the matter of suppressing the reckless speeding of automobiles within the limits of the borough was discussed with a view of taking definite action.

At a meeting of the vestry of the Lutheran church, Saturday evening, it was decided to have the auditorium of the church re-frescoed and renovated with a view to making it a new pipe organ. These important and timely improvements will add much to the attractiveness of the interior of the edifice, and the new organ, especially, will be hailed with joy by the many members and friends of the church.

Next Sunday the United Evangelical church will have a reopening and bell dedication. The interior of the auditorium has been painted and appears very inviting. The bell is a memorial to the late Miss Anna B. Thomas, presented by A. P. Fritz. The Rev. A. W. Brownmiller, of Lebanon, Rev. Samuel Gracey and Rev. Harry Brooks will assist the pastor in the services of the day. A ten-day service will follow. Rev. A. W. Brownmiller will preach on Monday evening; Rev. W. P. Johnson, Tuesday evening; Rev. Jacob Conner, Wednesday evening; Rev. C. A. Long, of Royersford, Thursday evening; Rev. A. W. Markley, of Spring City, Friday evening; Rev. J. G. Sands, of Pottstown, Saturday evening. On the evening of the 30th of May a Memorial service will be conducted by the pastor, assisted by an able speaker. The public most cordially invited to all these services. No preaching at Trappe or Ziegler'sville on the Sabbath.

Prof. W. W. Chandler, of Ursinus College, lectured on "School Days" in the Limerick Centre church, Sunday evening. The lecture was much appreciated.

We attended divine services held in the Green Tree church Sunday. Rev. J. W. Meyers preached. His sermon was a very timely one, and the commemoration of the Lord's Supper and Love Feast will be held this Saturday evening, beginning at half-past five. Rev. Meyers, in his pleasant, scholarly and living a good moral, thoroughly life was not all, but to us God commanded us to do that through Christ alone, having a better regard for his teachings, his precepts, will bring him nearer to us; that it is only through Christ, we can come to God. That the cry "It is finished" was an exulting cry over death and the world. It was but the cry of victory over death. If we live as God desires, ours will be the happy one when our life ends.

The threatening weather, which began an early drizzle, culminated in a shower, showering shortly after church dismissed, and the mutterings of thunder to the south of us betokened a rain to continue throughout the day, but the shower up, the sunshine came again, but for a time the sky was clouded again. The old chestnut, even should it come from Oaks, of the kindly old lady who wished it would rain nights and Sundays so the poor workingman could rest, was gratified once again.

POTATO GROWING.

Preparing the Land, Details of Planting and Tillage.

For potatoes furrow the ground three feet apart and fully four inches deep.
My experience is that when you think you are planting four inches deep you will find when the ground is leveled and measurements taken it will not average more than three inches deep.

(The potato planted (top), covered (second), the ground leveled (third).)

Sprinkle the seed with gypsum (hand plaster) and plant soon after it is cut.
Place the seed pieces not more than sixteen inches apart in the row and cover deeply with a double moldboard or a large single shovel plow. Use two horses or the potatoes will not be covered deep enough or middles fully opened. Have the plow fall enough and run it deeply enough so that it may run in the middle of the spaces and yet cover the seed to a depth all told of eight or ten inches—that is,
the seed to the surface of the ground sharpish edge. If the tools you have will not do this, plant the rows closer together. More potatoes can be secured by close planting, but the implement of intertillage are not usually suited to narrow intervals.

In from ten days to two weeks the seed potatoes will have healed over and the sprouts have grown to a length of from one to two inches. However, this will depend on the season of planting and the temperature and character of the land. In any case level the ridges before the sprouts have become so long that they will be injured by the leveling process. The best leveling implement is a spike toothed harrow, with a 2 by 4 scattering placed underneath it at an angle of forty-five degrees from the rows. If the harrow is inclined to clog, make the angle of the scattering more acute. First drive lengthwise of the rows, taking three at a time. Sometimes it may be well to stand on the harrow, but in such a position as to allow the teeth in the rear end of it to come into shape of a mold with the ground. If one harrowing does not level the ground satisfactorily,
cross harrow.

If these instructions have been followed the results will be a well prepared seed bed, even if the fall harrowing has not been performed; the seed planted early, four inches deep or a trifle more;
an extra tillage by reason of furrowing the ground deeply and then covering the seed by a deep, first drive run in the middles, permitting the ground to dry and warm, which is not objectable in early spring.

The planing off or leveling destroys many incipient weeds, puts the surface in fine tith, prepares for a mulch and conserves moisture by obliterating all surface corrugations, sets free plant food and promotes nitrification.

The first tillage should follow the smoothing in about two weeks and

IMPLEMENT FOR FIRST TILLAGE.

would best be done with one horse and an implement provided with a goodly number of small teeth, as shown in the illustration. The first drive should be kept free from large ridges or corrugations, since an uneven surface tends to promote too rapid evaporation of moisture. Implements having small teeth enable the operator to run closely to the plants. The second first tillage is to make every plant true. Then you can hang up the hoe, for there will be little use for it.
There should be three to five subsequent tillages, if timely—that is, frequent as to prevent weeds from getting anything but a feeble start.—J. P. Roberts in Country Gentleman.

FARM INTERESTS.

Current Events and Intimations in Agriculture.

By BENJAMIN J. R.

Washington, D. C.—The progress of irrigation in this country and the magnitude of enterprises in irrigated agriculture constitute one of the most remarkable features in the agricultural development of the world. So rapid has been its growth that recent data of the census bureau brought down to the close of the crop year of 1902 reveal many striking facts regarding the number and extent of the irrigation enterprises in the western states, the enormous amount of money involved in their construction and the trend of development.

In the year for which the data were gathered for the recent census bulletin irrigation was practised on 134,099 farms in the United States, an increase of more than 20 per cent over the returns for 1890. This increase represented an addition of about 1,705,000 acres which has been brought under irrigation systems at a cost of nearly $22,000,000.

Grain Rust.

The season of 1904 witnessed probably the most severe epidemic of grain rust ever known in the spring wheat region, and a considerable amount of rust marked the season in all portions of the United States. Generally wheat suffered most, oats next and rye in some regions. There was little or no damage to barley as a rule. Considerable loss was sustained by corn.
M. A. Carleton, discussing the unusual abundance of rust in 1904, says the simple reasons for it are:

First, the fact that there was an early start in the spring wheat season,
the proper time for the rust to do the most damage to the crop, and, second,
the unusual delay in the ripening of the grain. The season was generally wet and, besides, preceded by wet seasons. There being a considerable quantity of rust in the two previous wet seasons, it finally reached the climax of abundance in the third wet season of 1904, and especially at the critical period. This period, when the greatest amount of damage is done,
is always between the date of blooming and the date of ripening, when the head is "filling out." The prevalence of the disease is largely a function of the humidity of the atmosphere.

Pine Tree Land.

The type of muck known in In-ghra and Illinois as "black prairie" and "chaffy soil" is peculiar. With the ground water very near the surface, the soil is said to be never too wet to work. It is apparently very rich, yet largely unproductive. With the addition of stable manure and wood ashes, however, it produces profitable crops of truck, particularly of celery, onions, potatoes and cabbage.

Agents of the bureau of soils state that the low productivity of muck is largely due to poor underdrainage. In addition to thorough drainage they say that the process of oxidizing the organic matter that forms the greater proportion of the soil can be hastened by incorporating strawy manures or litter with it. A statement recently credited to Chief Whitney of the bureau of soils is to the effect that the remedy for these waste lands has been found in the addition of potash, in which they are lacking, and the potash may be supplied through any of the potash fertilizers, the form of the potash being unimportant.

The Ideal.

It is in making endless additions to itself, in the endless expansion of its powers, in endless growth in wisdom and beauty, that the spirit of the human race finds its ideal. To reach this ideal culture is an indispensable aid,
and that is the true value of culture.
